

30 October 2017

What Organ Am I?

I pump and pump all day and night with no rest. I am the most powerful organ and have a lot of responsibility, it can be hard sometimes when I get involved with problems occurring in the brain. My strings get pulled and sometimes even feel like they will rip apart. I am full and content when I receive the signal of love and happiness. Every beat is for one person or one cute, fluffy dog. It can have a bad effect though once the brain tries to interfere. I am fragile and even the smallest remark or most important person can make me feel like I could break with any contraction of my valves. It can feel like physical pain at times, I ache when signals are mixed or feelings start consuming me. Every day is a whirlwind of emotions from the brain, if only it would shut up sometimes, my job could be just a little easier. We'll just have to work on it. With each pump of blood I am thinking of how lucky I am to have such an important role in the life of one girl.